FREE FROM PERIBRIEF

LETTER

The perimenopause appointment checklist

Ten minutes of preparation can change how an appointment goes. Tick off each step, and take this page with you.

Before

- [ ] Track your symptoms daily for 2–8 weeks (0 none to 3 severe)
- [ ] Note the first day of each period, and any heavy bleeding
- [ ] Pick your top 3 symptoms and write how each affects your life
- [ ] List your medicines and supplements
- [ ] Write your 3 most important questions
- [ ] Book a longer appointment if you can
- [ ] Decide whether to bring someone

During

- [ ] Lead with your top 3 symptoms and their impact
- [ ] Ask: “Could this be perimenopause?”
- [ ] Ask about all your options, hormonal and non-hormonal
- [ ] Ask what the benefits and risks are for you
- [ ] Agree a plan and a review date
- [ ] Write down what was agreed

After

- [ ] Put your review date in your calendar
- [ ] Keep tracking, so you can see what changes
- [ ] Note any side effects, with dates
- [ ] Unclear on anything? Send a short follow-up message
- [ ] Felt unheard? Ask for the reasons to be noted, a second opinion or a referral

Your 60-second opener

1. “I've been tracking my symptoms for _____ weeks.
2. The three affecting me most are _____ , _____ and _____ .
3. It's affecting my _____ . For example, _____
4. I'd like to talk about whether this could be perimenopause, and what options might suit me.”

Get help promptly for bleeding after 12 months without a period, bleeding after sex or between periods, very heavy bleeding, a new breast lump, or low mood that isn't lifting. In an emergency, call 911.

FREE FROM PERIBRIEF

Ten questions worth asking

Tick the ones that matter most to you. You won't have time for all of them, and that's fine.

- [ ] Based on my age, symptoms and periods, could this be perimenopause?
- [ ] Could anything else be causing or adding to my symptoms?
- [ ] Do I need any tests? What would the results change?
- [ ] What are my options, hormonal and non-hormonal?
- [ ] Which might suit me, given my health history?
- [ ] What are the benefits and risks of each for me?
- [ ] What could help my sleep and mood?
- [ ] Do I still need contraception, and for how long?
- [ ] What's the plan, and when will we review it?
- [ ] Who could I be referred to if this doesn't help?

Notes from my appointment

WANT THE COMPLETE TOOLKIT?

PeriBrief: the doctor-ready perimenopause toolkit

- A one-page Doctor Brief (fillable), plus a finished example
- An 8-week tracker, plus a spreadsheet that builds your Brief for you
- Plain-language guidance sheets for the US, UK, Canada or Australia, with sources and dates
- A question bank, a 60-second script and replies for when it goes off track
- Plan B: next steps and message templates if you feel unheard
- Letter and A4, fillable or printable

© 2026 PeriBrief. Free to use and to share unchanged. Educational information to help you prepare for an appointment. It does not diagnose or treat any condition and is not a substitute for medical advice.